THE PENSION ROBBERY.
H. St. George Tucker Gives Some Startling Figures About the Fraud.
(Roanoke Herald Report.)
The opera-house was filled last night at an early hour with an enthusiastic audience who gave vent to their pent up exuberance by vociferously applauding every person of prominence who entered the hall.
He paid his respects to the Pension bill and said that every man in Old Virginia had tied to his back a Federal soldier whom he must help to support. He would never raise his voice against aiding the gallant soldiers of that war who lost arm, or leg, or life, but he was opposed to fattening the hummers and bounty jumpers, deserters and cowards, who never fought a battle nor smelt gunpowder, yet were feeding on the life-blood of the people.
Of 2,500,000 soldiers enlisted, 2,025,000 were bounty men or substitutes, and were paid for enlisting $386,000,000 by the government or by private individuals, and there were now 1,140,000 applications filled for pensions, and the new bill would add $80,000,000 more, swelling the total to 1,940,000 pensioners.
He lately applied for a pension (the second ever presented from his dinner district) and urged dispatch, but was informed that there were 400,000 ahead of him, and others pouring in at the rate of 10,000 a day.
Garfield said $28,000,000 would be the high-water pension mark, and afterwards they would decline, but we had already reached $170,000,000, of which the South paid $65,000,000, Virginia $5,000,000, or $15 to $20 for every man in Virginia as long as he lived.
The czar of Russia paid only $119,000,000 for the support of his vast army, and the armies of France and Britain together did not cost as much as this army of hummers and bounty men. Even deserters were entitled to his pension, and the 12,000 deserters came up to the trough and ate their dough with the rest of the chickens.
He scouted the idea of any man, of any party wanting free-trade, for an immense sum must be raised by duties to support the government, and every democrat would protect the workingman against the cheap pauper labor of Europe, but the little bubble that the McKinley bill was designed to protect the workingman was punctured by the fact that the tax levied on it was double the entire cost of production.
He next discussed the McKinley bill, which came home to every fireside. All knew what taxation meant when the sheriff came around with his little ticket.
Here a "Smart Aleck," who had been trying to be witty on several occasions, shouted "He sold my cow the other day." "Ah! well, I congratulate the cow."

CLOTHES MAKE THE BRIDEGROOM.
They Don't Make the Man, but in This Case It's Different.
(From the Chicago Tribune.)
He was sitting on a bench at the Union Depot, with his hands thrust deep into his trousers pockets, his feet stretched out in front of him, his head bent forward on his chest, and his hat pulled down over his eyes.
"What's the matter with you?" inquired a policeman, touching him on the shoulder.
He looked up a moment with dull, heavy, lack-lustre eyes, and then looked down again.
"I'm sober," he said. "You needn't waste any of your valuable time on me. I don't need looking after."
"But you have been sitting here an hour without saying a word or moving a muscle. You're in trouble. What is it?"
"I don't think you can help me here."
"Perhaps I can. That's what I'm here for."
"Humph!"
"Have you had your pocket picked?"
"Worse than that."
"How marked by confidence men?"
"Worse."
"Been held up and robbed?"
"Worse."
"You seem to be all here. I don't see any arms, legs, or anything missing."
"No!" snorted the young man. "You don't see anything missing! Everything's missing!"
He jumped up, pushed his hat back, and burst out:
"Do you see this valise?"
"Yes."
"Well, it isn't mine. It's just like mine, but it belongs to a man that's half way between here and the end of the world by this time. He took my valise by mistake last night when he had to change cars, and I didn't find it out till noon to-day."
"Well, that isn't a killing matter."
"It isn't, hey? That valise had my wedding suit in it, sir. I was to have been married an hour ago. The girl is waiting for me at a house on Division street, the preacher is there, the folks are wondering what's up, and the wedding victuals are getting cold."
"Why don't you go and be married in that suit you have on? It looks all right."
"This suit? These are the clothes I courted her in!"
"What of it? Go and explain the case to her."
"She'd think the explanation was a little too thin."
"Brace up, young fellow," said the policeman. "What's a suit of clothes anyhow? Clothes don't make the man." The forlorn youth threw himself down on the bench again, thrust his hands deep into his trousers pockets, stuck his head forward on his chest, pulled his hat down over his eyes, and said in a muffled voice:
"Clothes don't make the man, my friend. But they make the bridegroom, and don't you forget it!"
And when the policeman came around that way again an hour or two afterward, the young man was sitting in exactly the same attitude, except that his hands were a little deeper in his trousers pockets, and his hat pulled a little further down over his eyes.

Nelson Toots Again in 2:10 3-4.
CAMBRIDGE CITY, Ind., Oct. 29.—The champion trotting stallion Nelson proved his right to the title he bears by trotting a mile again here to-day in 2:10 3-4, the same figure as marked on Tuesday.
To-day's effort was made under more unfavorable conditions than those which marked Tuesday's efforts, and the opinion is general here that the son of Young Rolfe is capable of trotting a mile in 2:10 or better. Mr. Nelson will undoubtedly give the horse another opportunity before leaving for the East.
Nelson is a bay horse with brown points, bred by his present owner, C. H. Nelson of Sunnyside, Ind., and was sired by Young Rolfe, himself a trotter with a record of 2:21 1/2, and is out of the producing dam Gretchen by Gideon, a worthy representative of the Knox family. He is a horse of splendid substance, weighing fully 1,050 pounds in condition, and stands fully a head under sixteen hands.
Last year he was a star performer, trotting to a record of 2:14 1/2, but this season he developed surprising speed and has shown phenomenal flights in efforts against the watch, beating the champion record for half-mile tracks, and eclipsing all records for stallions.
It is pleasing to note that Nelson's two best performances have been made over the regular old-time circular course.

THE SUN
1930.
Some people agree with Tux's opinion about men and things, and some people don't; but everybody likes to get hold of the newspaper which is never dull and never afraid to speak its mind. Democrats know that for twenty years Tux has fought in the front line for democratic principles, never wavered or weakened in its loyalty to the true interests of the party it serves with fearless intelligence and undistorted vigor. At times opinions have differed as to the best means of accomplishing the common purpose; it is not Tux's fault if it has seen further into the millstone.
Eighteen hundred and ninety is the year that will probably determine the result of the presidential election of 1932, and perhaps the fortunes of the democracy for the rest of the century. Victory in 1932 is a duty, and the beginning of 1930 is the best time to start in company with Tux.

Caution About the Use and Selection of Spectacles.
Persons having normal vision will be able to read this print at a distance of fourteen inches from the eyes with ease and comfort; also will be able to read it with the eye separately. If unable to do so, your eyes are defective and should have immediate attention. When the eyes become tired from reading or sewing, or if the letters look blurred and run together, it is a sure indication that glasses are needed. The lenses sold in the cheap goods are of unequal density and have a tendency to produce eyestrain. The use of these poorer lenses will result in positive injury from the constant strain upon the muscles of accommodation to supply the defects in the glass.
We make a variety of fitting glasses to all eyes.
